ENTR 591A
Entrepreneurial Mindset
Dr. Elizabeth Vitullo
M 6:00-9:00

*open to all graduate students

This course will expose graduate students to entrepreneurship and will allow them to explore their own business ideas. Students can either work alone on developing their ideas or participate in an interdisciplinary team. Faculty will lead lectures in foundational areas of business with an application to entrepreneurship through a team-taught approach involving faculty across the University. Students will be trained in methods to vet, plan and communicate their business idea. Special topics will also be covered including social entrepreneurship and entrepreneurial leadership.
